Council-manager or mayor?

By GEORGE MALEK

Washington C.H. residents will be asked the $7,000 question Tuesday - "Will the present council-manager form of city government be retained, or will it be discarded in favor of the mayor plan?'

Although no one will receive any money for the right answer, residents are paying at least $7,000 to have the question asked. The Fayette County Board of Elections has already authorized payment of bills in the amount of $4,500 for the special election, and more than $2,000 will be spent for the salaries of poll workers. Total cost of the election is sure to exceed $7,000 or more.

Obviously, a number of area residents feel that it is worth that amount of money to see the federal (mayor) form of government adopted Washington C.H., more than 500 signed petitions calling for the special election.

However, the cost of the election appears to be only the first installment on the purchase of a mayor plan. If the plan is adopted, it is likely residents here will pay somewhere in the neighborhood of $8,000 per year more than they are now paying for city administration, according to a survey of similar-sized Ohio cities.

One difference in the administration under the proposed federal plan for mayor-council government is the number of city officials employed. Under the present council-manager plan, the city manager is the only liaison between the council and the heads of the individual city departments. He is responsible for the operation of the police department, the fire department, water treatment, city planning, and street improvement, but has no legislative power.

Under the federal plan, the mayor is more actively involved in legislating and less active as an administrator. The statute mandates that the mayor appoint a safety director and a service director who will handle liaison work and administration of the city departments. Council can by ordinance combine these two positions into one office, but at least one safety-service director must be employed. The other officials in the governmental structure remain the same, and thus the difference in costs of the government is approximately equal to the difference in salary of the city manager on one hand, and the salary of the mayor, safety director and the service director on the other hand.

If the mayor plan is adopted, the new council will set the salary of each position. Since this would not be done until after the election, the salaries which would exist here cannot be calculated at present, but they can be

Council would undoubtedly attempt to offer the lowest possible salary which would still attract qualified persons to the offices. It can also be assumed that other councils are attempting to spend a minimum of funds for salaries in their cities. Therefore it is worthwhile to investigate the salaries paid by other mayor plan governments in cities of similar size. Eight Ohio cities ranging in size from 10,000 to 14,000 persons were contacted after being chosen at random. Their expenditures for the salaries of the mayor, service and safety directors were then compared to the $16,000 salary paid to Washington C.H. City Manager Dan Wolford whose duties parallel those of the three persons in a mayor government. The average population of the eight cities is just over 11,000, slightly less than Washington C.H.'s personnel in the cities contacted than Washington C.H. is paying the city manager. Only one of the eight paid less than $17,000, and the highest paid nearly $40,000.

Vandalia, with a population of 11,000, had the highest figure. It pays its mayor only $700 for his part - time participation. However, the safety-service director has a salary of $16,000, and the city also employs a city manager at a salary of $23,000. A city manager can be hired in addition to the other administrators under any mayor form if the populus so desires, and Vandalia is heavily industrialized.

Urbana (population 11,000) was the lowest paid. It employed a mayor for $3,000 and a safetyservice director for $11,000 for total administration costs of $14,000.

Wilmington pays $25,000 -$5,000 for a mayor, $3,500 for a safety director, and $17,000 for a service director. The population of Wilmington is only 10,000 persons and is similar in composure to Washington C.H., but has less industry.

Others contacted included Bellefontaine (population 11,000) which pays $17,200; Grove City (14,000), $29,000; Circleville (12,000), $23,000; and Van Wert (12,000) which pays $23,500 at present. Van Wert has a safetyservice director who makes $17,000 and a mayor with a current salary of $6,500. An ordinance was passed at the last council meeting to raise the mayor's salary to $8,500, but the mayor vetced the measure saying the increase was not enough.

Mount Vernon (population 13,000) pays a safety-service director $13,500 and has raised the mayor's salary from $6,000 this year to $14,400 beginning

Corruption in agency hinted

Drug chief quits

the federal narcotics agency is resigning under pressure from the White House and the Justice Department amid probes of reported corruption, sources say.

Government sources said John R. Bartels Jr., head of the Drug Enforcement Administration since it was created in July 1973, was bowing to a White House request spurred by a Justice Department investigation. Bartels was unreachable and a spokesman for Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi refused to comment.

The Justice Department acknowledged May 2 that it had been conducting a special investigation since March into possible mismanagement or corruption within the agency. The investigation reportedly ranged from rumors of sexual escapades by agents to mis-management by top officials.

The agency was formed to consolidate government narcotics control programs. Since its inception, the DEA has been at the center of controveries involving rival agencies, many of whose antinarcotics roles it absorbed.

Although Bartels once expressed enthusiasm for the Justice Department probe, one government source said he was "quite disturbed."

"It's been a barrage of things that convinced him that for the good of the entire narcotics effort he should resign," the source said.

"The morale of the department is bad and his time has been taken up defending himself," said another person familiar with the situation.

Levi said at a news conference Thursday that he was not satisfied with the performance of the Drug Enforcement Administration, but he also said he had not read a Justice Department report on Bartels and his agency prepared at the attorney general's request.

"I understand the report is not going to accuse him of any heinous deeds,' said one source.

Ford tells allies U.S. still strong

President Ford has told America's European allies not to worry about the military strength of the United States, its economy and its political system.

In his speech at the opening Thursday of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's two-day summit meeting, Ford conceded that the Communist victories in South Vietnam and Cambodia "have led some to question our strength and reliability."

"I believe that our strength speaks for itself," he declared, "our military power remains, and will continue to remain, second to none. Of this let there be no doubt. Our economy remains fundamentally sound and productive, and our political system has emerged from the shocks of the past year stronger for the way in which it met a severe internal test.

He assured the allies "the United States of America, unconditionally and unequivocally, remains true to the commitments undertaken when we signed the North Atlantic Treaty, including the obligation in Article 5 to come to the assistance of any NATO nation subjected to armed attack."

Turning to problems facing the alliance, he called for maintenance of a 'strong and credible defense' and more effective use of defense resources, including standardization of procedures and equipment.

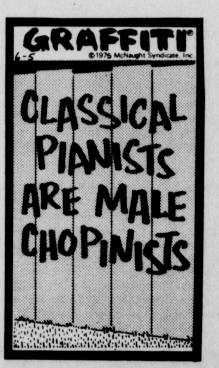

Hitting at France and Greece, he called for "unqualified participation" in the alliance, not "partial membership or special arrangements." He also said "we should begin now to consider how to relate Spain with Western defense" and added: "Spain has already made, and continues to make, an important contribution to Western military security as a result of its bilateral relationship with the United States.'

The President met for 45 minutes at the U.S. Embassy with one of the leaders of Portugal's new leftist military regime, Premier Vasco Gon-calves. Aides said Ford told Goncalves "it would be unfortunate and somewhat incompatible with the purposes of NATO" if the Communists gained control of Portugal. They said Goncalves replied that his government does not intend to be NATO's "Trojan horse" and would not drop out of the alliance. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said the session was "very

Ford also met for nearly half an hour with President alery Giscard d'Estaing of France after a dinner at the Royal Palace for the leaders attending the summit. White House press secretary Ron Nessen reported that five topics were discussed: Southeast Asia, American relations with Western Europe and its moves toward unification, the leftward turn of Portugal's government, assistance to the underdeveloped world and ways of getting started again on talks with the oil-exporting countries.

Auto tag deadline Saturday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - "Any car operating without an Ohio 1975 license tag validation sticker after midnight May 31 is in violation of the law," the Ohio Highway Safety Department has warned.

Highway Safety Director Donald Cook said police and Highway Patrol officers would begin ticketing untagged motor vehicles June 1.

Because of confusion over the new law and an obvious enforcement problem, the Highway Safety Department decided in late April to extend the deadline for all motorists to May 31.

'Shock budget' for New York City

YORK (AP) — Mayor Abraham D. Beame, with scathing Republican lawmakers and Wall Street bankers. has announced an $11.89 billion "shock therapy" budget that he says will cut 51,000 employes from the city payroll

In addition to the 13,782 dismissals Beame already had ordered, the new 1975-76 "crisis-level" budget called for layoffs of another 37,315 city employes. One of every three policemen and sanitation workers and one of every five firemen will be fired. Workers in education, health, transportation, housing, parks and municipal government are also marked for dismissal. Beame said the budget would mean:

-Curtailment or elimination of school programs; increased class sizes; reduction or elimination of special classes, school lunches and other activities, and elimination of 11,000 education jobs.

A cut of more than 20,000 students in the City University's September freshmen class. -Firing of 4,200 police; 700 police civilian employes, and elimination of the entire 2,300-member school crossing guard unit. -Firing of 2,300 fire fighters and elimination of scores of engine and ladder companies. -Firing of 2,882 sanitation workers; collection reductions

In a White House statement issued when Ford was in Europe, he said he vetoed the bill because "its chief impact would be felt long after our current unemployment problems are expected to subside."

Ford, who had requested a $2 billion authorization bill, also expressed concern that the vetoed bill would have increased the budget deficit, now set at $60 billion by the administration.

scorn from the mayor. Hours before the mayor's delivery of the budget message, the city received from Albany a $200 million advance on welfare payments due from the state in the first quarter of 1976. This permitted the city to meet bond and payroll obligations due today. But Beame was irked by what he thought was an unsympathetic reception by state legislators at Albany.

"These are not threats," the Democratic mayor said Thursday evening when he presented the country's second largest budget to a jam-packed, televised session of the 43member City Council, the Board of Estimate, the heads of all city departments and leaders of the municipal labor unions.

"Without recourse to additional aid. we must move from programmed recovery to shock therapy," he said. In an emotional 20-minute speech, Beame lashed out at the financial community, accusing it of lack of responsiveness to the city's monetary needs "despite unprecedented actions taken by my administration to move the city to a sounder financial position.

A spokesman for the financial community, Ellmore C. Patterson of Guaranty Trust, said: "We feel confident a congressional inquiry into New York's financial problems ... would show that the financial institutions of the city have been working hard to help achieve a constructive solution to the problems."

the calculations, the average of the other seven mayor forms runs over $23,000 per city, or $6,000 more than Washington C.H. residents are paying for administration costs.

Even if Washington C.H. discovered an extremely frugal council under the mayor plan, it would seem that a miracle would be required to shave $6,000 from the costs incurred by other cities and still obtain personnel who are qualified for the positions they would hold.

If the citizens of Washington C.H. desire a change to the mayor form of government, it seems advisable to take their wallets to the polls.

Brezhnev near retirement, European leaders believe North Atlantic Alliance are getting reports from Moscow that suggest Leonid I. Brezhnev, the No. 1 man in the Soviet Union, will retire next year.

That is believed to be the chief reason why the Soviet government is pushing so hard for a 34-nation summit conference on European security in September. It will officially recognize the Soviet sphere of influence in Eastern Europe, and Brezhnev wants it as the crowning achievement of his career.

Expectations of Brezhnev's withdrawal from public life appear to be based on circumstantial evidence, hints and suggestions. No visiting Western leader has been told outright the Communist party chief is on his way out.

Among the pointers: -Brezhnev''s health seems to be not all that good, according to people who have watched him at close quarters

-Soviet officials exhibit a new sense of haste in arguing the case for a

Some Western officials express the belief that agreement to hold the European summit conference in September would reinforce the faction in the Kremlin that favors cooperation with the West. This, then, would marginally influence the succession to Brezhnev, they argue.

Beef grading change nixed

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) - A federal judge has ruled that the U.S. Department of Agriculture cannot change the way it grades the nation's beef. U.S. District Court Judge Robert V.

Denney, issuing a permanent injunction against the USDA Thursday, called the proposed regulations "arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion or otherwise not in accordance with law.

He ruled the department failed to say adequately what economic impact the changes would have and improperly tied quality grading to yield grading, or the amount of usable meat a carcass will yield. The proposed changes would have lowered the standards for fat marbling the tiny specks of fat through red meat felt to be the best indicator of how tasty, tender and juicy beef will be. This would have allowed some cattle now graded "good" to move up to "choice," and some "choice" animals to get a "prime" grade. Consumer groups charged that the proposed standards would have meant retailers could charge the same amount of money for inferior meat, and meat packers said the new regulations would increase their costs.

But the government claimed current marbling standards were too high, and cattle growers said they had to spend too much on feed to fatten their beef to meet the standards.

Denney, a former Nebraska congressman who has raised some cattle himself, issued a preliminary injunction last month halting the scheduled April 14 start of the new standards.

Heavy primary for central Ohio

By The Associated Press

A mayor under indictment for alleged theft in office and conversion of public money is seeking his second term in New Philadelphia's primary election Tuesday.

Mayor Lloyd F. Dinger, 52, is in a three-way race for the Republican nomination. Neither of his opponents, councilmen William J. Ress, 34, or James R. Yelverton, 55, have made the indictments an issue in the race.

Dinger was indicted in December by a county grand jury. He is accused of two counts of theft in office, two of conversion of public money, two of fraudulent conversion and two of perjury in connection with $3,120 which allegedly is missing from the city police mayor's court.

No trial date has been set. Dinger denies the charges.

Asia seen good area for business

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)- The former U.S. Ambassador to Malaysia said there is a golden opportunity for small and medium sized businesses in Southeast Asia despite United States problems there.

Jack W. Lydman, who retired in 1974, forsees the smaller firms establishing sales offices and even manufacturing plants there. Asian countries would welcome these new businesses, said Lydman, a visiting Woodrow Wilson Fellow at Wilmington College.

"Such nations tend to feel more comfortable with small firms rather with the giant multicorporations," he said.

'Such moves would benefit not only smaller American businesses, but American Workers as well," he said adding that his last visit to the area was four months ago.

"It does not automatically follow that American workers will be displaced. "More overseas trade eventually means more American jobs," He said. Location there of American firms would also help bolster American fo reign relations, he said. County sets own study for park

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)-Montgomery County has decided to conduct its own mandatory environmental impact study on a proposed $4,000 playground rather than pay a private firm $30,000 for the report.

The federal government said the study must be conducted before the county can go ahead with the "tot lot" in the Dayton subdivision of Riverside, officials said.

The playground is to include a turtle sculpture for children to climb, a small slide, balance beam, cast aluminum porpoise and benches, officials said.

County coordinator Richard Howells said he did not disagree with the idea of the study, "but it just looks like they've extended it a little too far."

The Riverside tot lot is one of 23 county projects to be funded with a $725,000 federal community development grant.

The grant is contingent on each of the projects conforming with federal environmental impact guidelines.

A CITY MANAGER

Since 1936, the city of Washington has progressed and successfully operated under the city manager plan. Many advancements have been made with honest and efficient management of city programs and finances. The City Manager serves at the pleasure of your elected City Council, taking his orders from council, and can be dismissed immediately by the vote of any four councilmen.

The City Manager is usually a trained professional with a knowledge of public administration, financing, engineering, municipal and state laws and sewage plant operation. The City Manager is a full time employee of the city with no political party obligations.

Direct election pushed

That hardy perennial among political ideas, direct popular election of the president of the United States, is budding again. Some of its champions think, or profess to think, that it may come into full flower this year.

An early frost in the form of a Senate filibuster prevented that when the idea last bloomed in Congress in the fall of 1970. In 1973 the idea put forth buds that came to naught; the Senate Judiciary subcommittee on constitutional amendments approved the proposal but the Judiciary Committee did not

Now the subcommittee has again approved a proposed amendment which would eliminate the electoral college system and provides that a candidate would have to get at least 40 per cent of the popular vote for election. Should no candidate receive 40 per cent, the Senate and House would meet in joint session to decide the outcome on a one-man, one-vote basis.

This would be a marked improvement over the present method, whereby each state chooses electors. That is cumbersome, and not truly reflective of the popular will, but this is not the system's chief flaw. In the event of an empassee, under this system, the choice would be made in the House of Representatives, with each state delegation having one vote.

It has never come to that, fortunately, but there is no guarantee that the nation will continue to be lucky. Our method of electing the president is badly in need of reform. The amendment just voted out by the Senate panel on constitutional amendments is at very least a springboard for renewed consideration of this important matter.

You haven't read much about it can be against "Security and from wandering off on a democratic tack. This, of course, was the justification for the 1968 invasion of Czechoslovakia.

But there is no reciprocity: If the United States suggested that we have the obligation, for example, to prevent Portugal from becoming a Communist dictatorship, the Soviets would bitterly denounce the proposition. In short, what's theirs is theirs; what's ours is up for grabs. When this nonsense began, I suggested that the United States should require Moscow to repudiate the Brezhnev Doctrine as a precondition for our participation (which is symbolically crucial). However, that was when the detente myth was in full bloom and it was considered very bad manners for one to suggest an "ultimatum" to Comrade Brezhnev. Didn't I trust him to move arm in arm with us into a singing future of peace in Indochina and the Middle

In a word, No. Or more properly, I fully anticipated that detente would be employed as a Communist weaponssystem against us. Le Duc Tho, for example, was completely consistent in refusing his half of the Nobel Peace Prize for the "peace" in Vietnam. His definition of "peace" was Communist domination, and I trust he will now travel to Stockholm and collect; nobody can accuse him of being dishonest.

Back to the windy halls of Geneva and the European Security Conference: As usual the Soviets are engaged in their iron-bottomed tactics; they just sit there and reject proposal after proposal and then accuse the others of being intransignet, unreasonable victims of the Cold War mentality. Take my special interest, the right of free movement of ideas and people (the so-called "Basket 3" at Geneva). The Soviets have consistently defined freedom of information as the right of a sovereign state to bar from its people subversive ideas; that is, the devine right of censorship. They do this with a straight face.

Not only do they announce this repressive policy, but they implement by vigorous jamming of Radio Liberty, Kol Israel and Radio Peking. As a member of the U.S. Board for International Broadcasting, which Congress established to replace the C.I.A. as the governmental parents of Radio Liberty and Radio Free Europe. I have been infuriated by our refusal to make an issue out of jamming at Geneva. (Radio Free Europe is jammed in Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia and Poland).

Jamming is in clear violation of Article 19 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, which guarantees the right "to seek, receive, and impart information and ideas through any media and regardless of frontiers. Moscow signed the Declaration. At Geneva the strongest case against jamming has been made by the German Federal Republic - if the United States has uttered a peep on the subject, it has missed my careful surveillance.

Suddenly at this point the cast in Geneva is bored to death and wants to go home, so the temptation is great to settle for some anodyne formula which all hands can subsequently construe as they choose. This would delight because unanimous agreement on any communique, however ambiguous, serves their symbolic goal: It legitimizes their European status. I submit that the U.S. should refuse to sign any declaration that does not explicitly denounce jamming: Our principles are more important than any fictitious show of the charms of "unity."

Governor foils betting newsmen

In delivering his 25-minute speech, Rhodes said the word "jobs" only six times, including ad libs. Newsmen kept count with slash marks on note paper.

A Cincinnati and a Columbus newsman split the $7 pot - one holding "three" and the other "nine."

Sen. Donald J. Pease, D-13 Oberlin, managed to cover up a faux pas in the Senate the other day, but he had to go to extraordinary lengths to do it.

Guffaws erupted. Mrs. Weisenborn, a Republican, was defeated last November by Neal F. Zimmers, D-5 Dayton, who was out of the chamber. By the time he realized how his words sounded, it was too late.

Zimmers returned and smiling broadly rose on a point of personal privilege.

"Have you been attacked?" asked the presiding officer.

Before Zimmers could answer, Pease bounded up from his seat, walked to Zimmers' desk and dropped to his knees, bowing like an Ohio State cheerleader after a Buckeye touchdown.

That fixed it. Zimmers voted with Pease on the school aid bill

But they set strict disciplines about other items - no tobacco smoking, no alcohol, no coffee or tea. They're vegetarians who eschew meat, fish, eggs and dairy products. They shun hunting or fishing, emphasize nonviolence.

"We notice that children who don't come from 'The Farm' are more violent," said Mildred Tassone, 28, a New York-reared married mother in the group. "We hope our own children. when they grow up, don't cut their hair and go over to the straight world."

Called simply "The Farm," the group was started in 1971 by Gaskin and some followers from San Francisco, then numbering 250. The number since has grown to 800 on 1,750 acres of land three miles from Summertown. Tenn

About 400 additional members live at 14 branch farms in other states. The group is one of many sequestered, individually led religious groups that have developed among youths in the country.

It puts out a magazine called "Hey Beatnik!" runs its own school for children, has midwives to deliver babies. "The Farm" includes teams of carpenters, mechanics, plumbers, electricians as well as farmers. They've put up a dozen buildings, including houses, a school, laundry, flour mill, printshop, canning facility and meeting hall.

"Any time there's trouble, they call on me," says Gaskin, who claims a special insight into reality, both natural and technological. "Most of the time, I can figure it out."

Gaskin, a one-time San Francisco State University teacher of creative writing, said he grew up with no religious background. He defined his group's beliefs as "experentially based religion, dealing with the vibrational and miraculous phenomena common to all mystical religions."

WCH Class of 1922 plans reunion

The Washington High School Class of 1922 is holding their 53rd class reunion on June 14, at the Washington Country Club. The activities will begin by assembling at the Washington Inn at 1 p.m. on that day. A 'Dutch' treat luncheon will be enjoyed at 1:30 p.m. at the Inn and visiting and renewing old friendships.

Kenneth Craig will be present for the luncheon and will conduct a tour of the Fayette County Museum, for all who wish to make the tour.

At 5 p.m. the group will motor to the Country Club for a social hour and more visiting. Then at 6:30 p.m. dinner will be served. Loren Stewart, former class president, will preside at the meeting to follow. Emerson Marting will be the after-dinner speaker. Former Coach Charles Morehead and his wife will be special guests and also Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson, former high school principal and wife.

Out of the 53 members in the graduating class, there are 31 who are living. Ann Alice Frayne, from the Class of 1921, has been contacted, who will extend an invitation to members of that year, to attend the reunion. A combined class reunion will be planned for 1976. Anyone of the Class of 1921, desiring to join the group, may call Lena Smith, Augustine McDonald, Bill Bourke, Dorothy Hankins or Robert Case.

AWARD WINNER - Judy K. Radabaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Radabaugh, Rt. 2, Mount Sterling, has recently been awarded a $450.00 Scholarship to attend the Ohio State School of Cosmetology in Columbus, beginning June 16. The training is a 10month course including haircutting, styling, color, etc. pursuant to examination and licensing by the State Board of Cosmetology and includes certified Redken Scientific Training.

Virginia Circle

The Virginia Circle of the Jeffersonville United Methodist Church met in the home of Mrs. Louis Vannorsdall with 12 members present. Mrs. Eugene Griffith, the leader read. "America" and other articles per-taining to "Patriotism." Reports were made. Announcements were made of coming activities of the church, and a thank you note was read from Otterbein Home pertaining to the bed pads the U.M. Women made.

"Child Advocacy" was the program topic presented by Mrs. Ruth Sheeley. The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Florence Siebert with a carry in luncheon, June 25 at noon.

Camp Fire leaders meet

A new tepee will be purchased by the Paint Valley Camp Fire leaders for use at Camp Murdock, during Day Camp to replace one destroyed last year in a storm. This was decided at the meeting held at Grace United Methodist Church last week, when leaders met to discuss Camp activities.

Ourdoor Camp training is planned for June 5 at 9 a.m. at Landmark, S. Fayette St., and a 50 cent fee is made for children attending. Leaders will 'brush up' on fire building and lashing, and get a general idea of camp routine.

Mrs. Jack Ferguson conducted the meeting and leaders were announced to have girls hold flags in the Memorial Day Parade. Girls are to meet at 6:30 p.m. Friday for the Memorial Parade, which will begin at 7 p.m. and dismiss at the Cemetery

It was suggested that the new bus be used to transport Camp Fire groups to view the Freedom Train or to the Ohio State Fair.

Mrs. Frank Sanderson has organized a mini-course in baton twirling. Joye Gardner, a Horizon Club member, will be the instructor. There is no fee involved. The time and place will be announced.

Thursday was the last day for Camp Registration, but leaders are still

The cookie recipe which will be used for the Cookie-Bake-Off at the Fayette County Fair, will be given out at the July 8 meeting. There will be no meeting in June.

Leaders present were Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. Robert Simpson, Mrs. Ronald Dowler, Mrs. Ed Ford, Mrs. Larry Chrisman, Mrs. Charles Zinn, Mrs. Bert Yarger, Mrs. David Exline, Mrs. John Adkins, Mrs. Paul Edgington, Mrs. Charles Harris and Mrs. Earl McDaniel.

Mrs. Thomas observes b'day

Mrs. Ethel Thomas of 420 South Main Street was pleasantly surprised on her birthday Tuesday with a family dinner party at The Blue Drummer Steak House. Guests in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thomas of Jamestown, Mrs. Mary Crone, Mrs. O.L. Allen and Mrs. Mary Jo Hunter and son, Larry.

Birthday cake, ice cream and opening of the gifts were later enjoyed at the honor guest's home. Mrs. Thomas also received a shower of cards from several members of her church, Maple Grove United Methodist Church, White Road.

TO GRADUATE - Miss Karen Elberfeld, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Elberfeld of 426 Rawlings St., will graduate at 8 p.m. June 6, from the Community Hospital School of Springfield. Nursing, graduation exercises will be held at North High School. Miss Elberfeld has accepted a position of team leader on an obstetrical unit at Community Hospital.

HOMEMADE BARBECUE SAUCES..... full of the fruity goodness of Florida orange juice will delight family and friends alike. They're savory..... spicy and robust.

Lend an oriental atmosphere to your next barbecue with Orange Soy Barbecue Sauce. Ready in a jiffy. . . it's the perfect marinade for ribs and chicken. . . a subtle combination of favorite oriental flavors. . . ginger and soy sauce, with a differen twist, orange juice. It adds zing to outdoor cooking!

Spicy Orange Tomato Barbecue
Sauce is a mixture of chili powder, Worcestershire sauce and orange juice, simmered together til it's a con-centrated, robust blend. Simply brush the sauce over chicken, spare-ribs or ham while broiling. No marinating ahead is necessary.

Try this slightly pungent Orange mustard Barbecue Sauce at your next outdoor gathering. So good with ham! These homemade sauces will delight many outdoor personalities. And, they can be prepared ahead and refrigerated for anytime use.

It's always a good idea to keep plenty of versatile Florida orange juice on hand during the summer months. Plain or mixed with other foods, it's a popular ingredient in summer eating.

1/2 cup soy sauce

12 cup chopped scallions

2 cups florida orange juice

ORANGE SOY BARBECUE SAUCE

1 teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon sugar 1/2 teaspoon ginger

In medium bowl combine all ingredients. Use as a marinade for chicken, spareribs or ham. To grill, remove meat from marinade, and occasionally brush marinade on meat during grilling. YIELD: 21/2 cups.

KSU damage photos admitted by judge

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) -Defendants in a suit resulting from the 1970 Kent State University shootings are battling for the right to probe in court events of three days leading up to the gunfire that left four students dead and nine wounded.

Trial of the $46 million civil damages suit, which names Gov. James Rhodes. three former state officials and 40 ex-Ohio National Guardsmen, was recessed for the weekend Thursday but not before the defense won a round in

The skirmish centered on defense attorney Burt Fulton's attempt to show the jurors photos of damage in Kent and on campus during three days of rioting just before the shootings, May 4,

Joseph Kelner, lawyer for parents of the dead students and the wounded students who have brought the action, objected that the exhibits were irrelevant. Kelner said none of the plaintiffs had been linked to the damage and that to admit testimony about events peripheral to the shootings would lengthen the trial unnecessarily.

Fulton responded that plaintiffs were charging that the guard had been called to the campus improperly and that he was entitled to show conditions under which the callup occurred.

"I want to show how these young men reacted, not any of the plaintiffs' actions," Fulton said.

U.S. District Court Judge Don Young agreed the photos "are indeed relevant" and permitted them to be admitted as evidence.

The judge, who said he permits at-torneys wide latitude in crossexamination, repeatedly overruled Kelner's attempts to force defense lawyers to confine their questions to issues concerning the firing itself.

Most of the photos discussed were taken by Howard Ruffner, a former photographer for the campus daily newspaper who testified for a second day. Ruffner, who was called by plaint-iffs, has testified he saw only scattered students below the east slope of Blanket Hill and that none was within 80 feet of the guardsmen when the gunfire erupted.

Under cross-examination, Ruffner shooting occurred as troops retreated from a practice football field.

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) - Walter Fleck Jr., a Tiffin grocery store owner, is scheduled to appear in federal court here June 6 on mail fraud charges in an alleged scheme involving the improper redemption of $500,000 in food coupons.

Asst. U.S. Dist. Atty. Patrick Foley said Fleck, who owns three food stores in Tiffin, one in Bradner and a fifth in Attica, also is accused in an alleged checkwriting scheme that resulted in losses of $200,000 by a Tiffin bank.

He said Fleck arranged to buy large collected reimbursements from food

R-H weekly carrier series

We salute

Thirteen-year-old Toni Lee Welch is The Record-Herald's first featured newspaper carrier.

Toni, who resides with her grandmother, Mrs. Blanche Welch, at 206 Florence St., has a total of 85 cutomers on her route. She has been an R-H carrier since May 23, 1974.

A seventh grader at the Washington C.H. Middle School. Toni carries a 4.0 scholastic average and lists home economics, physical education and mathematics as her favorite subjects.

Toni's hobbies are crocheting, photography and plants and her favorite foods are ice cream, pizza, submarine sandwiches, and all types of pastry. In her spare time, Toni enjoys badmitten, tennis and softball and also likes table games, reading and listening to the radio and "I like earning money and getting to know different people," Toni said about her job as an R-H carrier. She has purchased a bicycle, tennis rackets, a blender, a mixer, a sewing chest and a clock from money earned on her route.

Toni said, "having to carry papers when it is snowing and raining," was her only dislike about the route.

She has a brother, Dickie, 14, and a sister, Nancy, 12. "You couldn't have hired a TONI LEE WELCH better child," said Mrs. Reginald Davis, 633 Church St., one of Toni's customers. "She is the best we've had in 17 years in Washington C.H. She is a perfect lady at all times and always very considerate," Mrs. Davis said. "Toni is by far the best paper carrier I've had in years," said Jane Doyle, 612 Park Drive, another of the featured carrier's customers. "She always puts the paper where I ask her to and she has a pleasant personality. Her smile alone is worth the price of the paper," Mrs. Doyle added.

College graduates waiting on tables

WASHINGTON (AP) — The young woman, educated to be a French and art teacher, is waiting on tables in the Raleigh, N.C., area.

Her husband, with a bachelor's degree in sociology and a master's in demography, repairs bicycles and hopes for a job teaching retarded

"At least they're making a living and not sponging off the old man," says the girl's father, a Washington business ex-

Across the land, the worsening economy has thrown highly educated young adults out of work or into jobs for which they are neither trained nor particularly suited.

"PhDs parking cars and teachers typing in the steno pool are no joke, they're real," says a businessman.

The College Placement Council confirmed that point Tuesday, releasing results of a survey of 709 employers showing an 18 per cent drop in jobs for new college grads this year compared with last year. Those surveyed reported hiring 69,733 winter and spring graduates, down from 85,499 a year ago.

The employers in business, industry, government and nonprofit and institutions excluding teachers said they were not recruiting because of a lower personnel turnover during the uncertain economic

"Judging from their comments, employers do not expect appreciable improvement in hiring until possibly next spring," the council said. The hiring decline was the first since the 1969-71 recession and the severity approached the 27 per cent drop in the 1970-71 season, the council said.

The survey showed that jobs remained available for top students, minorities and females in high-demand fields. But the only industries hiring more new grads this year than last were petroleum, up 4 per cent; state and local governments, up 18 per cent, and nonprofit and educational institutions, up 7 per cent.

Liberal arts majors are experiencing a 9 per cent drop in jobs available this year from last year, on top of a 45 per cent decrease in 1970-71 and almost no improvement in intervening years. Engineering jobs, normally among the most heavily recruited categories, dropped 20 per cent at the bachelor's level, 23 per cent at the master's level, and 10 per cent at the doctoral level. Employment in engineering had increased a cumulative total of 53 per cent the three preceeding years,

Opportunities in business, usually another heavy employer, fell 28 per cent this year from last year. Higher-degree holders in general are experiencing greater difficulty in finding positions.

Jobs declined 20 per cent for new PhDs, compared with 18 per cent for bachelor's degrees and 17 per cent for master's degrees.

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) -While the world battles to cope with the energy crisis, Australians are sitting atop a treasure of uranium, coal, natural gas and oil worth billions of dollars to overseas buyers.

Huge deposits of iron ore, bauxite. copper, nickel and tin also lie under the vast Australian outback. Prospecting parties report new discoveries every

Despite the resources, there is no exploration and development boom. Government restrictions and uncertainty in the board rooms of mining companies have slowed the mining business in Australia to a shadow of what it could be.

The reasons are:

-Actually aware that foreign interests already control 40 to 60 per cent Australia's minerals, Minister Gough Whitlam's Labor government has slapped companies find themselves with freshly mined minerals they can't send out of the country, and are reluctant to search for more. -The Socialist-leaning government has also been buying shares in foreign and domestic mining companies, sending directors into a flurry of concern about their companies' future. The government is doing some mining entirely by itself.

-State and federal governments are fighting over who should license prospecting and production.

-Mines and overseas buyers are hesitant to go ahead with new projects and contracts until after the national elections, possible for later this year. The Conservative opposition has promised a 180-degree switch in government mineral policy — if it gets restrictions on mineral exports. Some to invest in Australia are plainly confused about the future.

U.S. Ambassador Marshall Green noted in January that Australia probably leads the world in per-capita mineral resources.

Only two or three countries have more iron ore. Australian now exports more iron ore and bauxite than anyone else. Aussies are among the big five producers of uranium, lead, zinc, manganese, tin, nickel and silver.

The State of Victoria probably has more brown coal underground than any entire nation. Black coal exports from Australia are 10th in the world. There are huge deposits of phosphate, and explored and unexplored reserves of natural gas and oil.

Exports are increasing every year, but mining companies say this is the result of explorations carried out in the

Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — We'd like to present Dr. Ray Cathode, the renowned expert on television ailments. He'll be with us this summer to answer viewer inquiries, except on Wednesdays when he plays golf.

His first question comes from M.S., of Deaf Smith County, Tex., who says: "My S.W.A.T. broke. What can I do?" Dr. Cathode: "Give it three grenades, four shotgun shells and a .357 Magnum bullet every two hours. But don't try to burp it."

V.N. of Reno, Nev., writes: "I want to see Monday night football next fall, but my wife wants to see 'Maude' and 'All in the Family.' They're all on at the same time and we have only one TV set. Please help.'

Dr. Cathode: "No." C.P. of Memphis, Tenn., asks: "Is Ted Baxter, the anchorman on the Mary Tyler Moore show, an anchorman in real life?" Dr. Cathode: "No. He's a news consultant for some local stations." B.O. of Homosassa Springs, Fla., gripes: "Every summer we get swamped with reruns. What can viewers do about it?"

Dr. Cathode: "Write the FCC. Write the FCC (repeat).'

T.G. of Burbank, Calif., asks: "Is there too much sex on TV?" Dr. Cathode: "No, because people keep falling off the set.' P.B. of Chicago inquires: "I notice that Maude yells a lot, but she never shouts through a screen door. Why?" Dr. Cathode: "She might strain her voice?' P.O. of Cleveland asks: "Is there any socio-economic causal link between real violence and violence on television?'

Dr. Cathode: "Yes, but somebody's using it right now." G.F. of Washington, D.C., says: "I haven't seen much of Henry Kissinger on TV lately. Why?' Dr. Cathode: "Mr. President, he's at CBS doing that special report on Marvin Kalb. Finally, a viewer from Mecca, Ind., calling herself "A Gardner McKay Fan," demands: "Why did ABC cancel 'Adventures in Paradise' so quickly this year? Are they against good acting or what?"

Dr. Cathode: "Yes and no. Ratings can't be ruled out, either.'

TWELVE FAYETTE COUNTY athletes comprise the bulk of Post 25's roster with two coming from Dave Pellior's Miami Trace baseball team and three from Washington Coach Rodger Mickle's Blue Lion squad.

The other seven sat out this spring's prep baseball season, but Helmick hopes they will work into shape soon enough for the league opener Sunday against the state defending champion, Portsmouth.

Miami Trace's Alan Conner and Washington's Randy Sparkman were first team all-league selections this past season. Conner will see some action on the mound while spending most of his time in the outfield.

He was named the best defensive player on the Miami Trace squad this past year while batting .323 in the SPARKMAN HIT.41 in the SCOL this past spring and Helmick has him tabbed to hold down either second or third base this summer for Post 25.

Larry Calkins will see plenty of action on the mound this year according to Helmick. The righthanded fireballer pitched Miami Trace to three of its five victories this year and lost two games by one run as his spring performance earned him the Panther's most valuable player honors.

Calkins should see some action at second base when he isn't on the mound.

Four other Miami Trace High School students made the 17-man roster, but didn't play for the Panthers this spring.

Two former Miami Trace trackmen are among the four as Terry Rodgers and Gary Combs traded in their track spikes for baseball cleats in joining the Legion squad.

Both Combs and Rodgers are tabbed for outfield duties this season.

ALSO, ON HAND, is ex-basketballer Randy Rhonemus and Robin Zurface. Zurface could be the starting first baseman for the Post 25 squad and Rhonemus is slated for outfield duties.

Washington Blue Lion mound ace Randy Gardner will celebrate his first year with the Legion squad by starting the season opener Friday. The righthander finished the SCOL season with a 3-1 record and sported a 2.80 earned run average for the Blue Lions

Gardner is also listed by Helmick as an outfielder and he is expected to open in rightfield when he's not on the

this summer after a respectable season as the Washington Blue Lion second baseman where he received all-league honorable mention honors despite missing several games with an injured hand. Helmick is contemplating a switch from second to centerfield for

BLUE LION TRACK standout Greg Marti is on the Post 25 roster this year. He is fresh from breaking two school track records this spring and he is scheduled for outfield duty.

Two other Washington students, Jeff DeWeese and John Ackley, made the team despite missing the prep season. DeWeese will be opening the season behind the plate for the Legion nine and the southpaw Ackley is expected to help Post 25 with the pitching duties.

Two Circleville residents return to the squad from last year. They are Mark Scherer and Phil Roll and both are expected to start for the squad this Roll is an all-SCOL selection with a .372 season average for Circleville this spring. He also pitches and is tabbed for the starting rightfield spot against Springfield Friday.

Scherer has the shortstop spot nailed down as he returns for his second year of duty for post 25.

JEFF GREEN from Madison Plains is beginning his third year as a Post 25 squad member. He will see considerable action on the mound this Jeff Craycraft from Jamestown-Greenview can help out at any position according to Helmick, but the prep star will see most of the action behind the plate and on the mound.

Zack Adams from Clinton-Massie rounds out the Post 25 roster. The lefthanded hurler can also play first Helmick is bringing two assistants, David Grim and John Sanderson, from his Babe Ruth days to help coach this year's legion team.

Legion baseball begins 50th year

The American Legion Baseball Program will open its 50th year this season and according to 7th District Chairman Dick Kelley of Washington C.H. the city has had a team almost every year since the programs inception.

The Legion program was founded at Milbank, South Dakota in 1925 and was adopted by the Legion's National Convention as part of the Americanism

In 1926, there were fifteen states entered in National competition with the first Ohio state champion, Springfield, being defeated in sectional play. Since that time Ohio has been at the top of ranks in national competition tournament with Cincinnati Post 50 winning five state titles during the year of 1947 to 1958 and four of those years Post 50 won the National Leagion Legion Baseball Program has been directed by Pete DeWeese and Bill Welsh, who has served in the Department of Ohio Headquarters.

The Ohio Program is under the jurisdiction of the Department Baseball Commission consisting of seven members who are selected annually by the Department Commander. For over thirty years this commission has been chaired by Larry Scales.

Each fall immediately following the baseball season members of the commission meet with their counterparts from all over the nation and review the previous year's department play setting all rules and regulations for the coming spring.

The state commission members also select the Department Tournament site, considering the best housing,

Over the past 48 years, the American feeding, playing field, and medical and training facilities.

Since 1926, the State Tournament has been held at Middletown, Springfield, Delaware, Columbus, Athens, and Ashland College.

There have been handicaps and problems over the years, but the American Legion Program continues to turn out Major league baseball material.

Over ninty per cent of the players in the major leagues this season have participated in the American Legion

Program. During its brief 50 years history the program has produced some outstanding players and Hall of Famers including Bob Feller, Ted Williams, Stan Musial, Roy Campanella, Lou Boudreau, Yogi Berra, Earyl Wynn and Warren Spahn.

Detroit Tigers stop Reds in exhibition

Tournament.

DETROIT (AP) - Maybe the Detroit igers are in the wrong league.

For the second time this year, the Bengals have stopped the Cincinnati Reds in an exhibition game. The Reds, who take a seven-game winning streak to St. Louis tonight and who follow National League West leader Los Angeles by 1½ games, were dropped 8-2 by Detroit Thursday night.

The Tigers, two games below .500, are trying to end a two-game losing streak and need a string of victories to keep pace in the American League

Some 28,593 fans watched the contest, with proceeds, estimated at $90,000, going to help sandlot baseball.

Detroit got 10 hits in the game, including Gene Michaels' two-run homer which topped a four-run rally in the fourth inning. Aurelio Rodriguez got two doubles.

Cincinnati used five pitchers. Loser Pat Darcy allowed the first run in the second inning when Rodriguez doubled down the left field line.

"David seemed to like our orwait until next month's American ganization and I think he has reached a pretty good understanding," said Nuggets' forward Bobby Jones. "Of course, I don't want to say anything that would hamper the deal ... I'd say Denver is fairly close, but strange

Atlanta, meanwhile, is in a precarious position because of its financial woes, although owner John Wilcox expressed confidence that the Hawks could afford to sign Thompson, Webster and Willoughby.

The problems, if any, could be solved by Wilcox selling the team to more financially stable owners, or as has been speculated, the Hawks trading Webster and Willoughby to the New York Knicks for forward Phil Jackson

The latter deal, of course, would services. The Nuggets have the ABA's provide the Hawks with sufficient

Warren Commission in dark on plot

WASHINGTON (AP) — The CIA and the Justice Department withheld information about CIA involvement in attempts to assassinate Fidel Castro from members of the Warren Commission investigating President John F. Kennedy's death, according to knowledgeable sources.

Two former officials of the Central Intelligence Agency who acknowledged that the Warren Commission never was told about a 1961 plot on the Cuban premier's life insisted that no conscious decision was made to withhold the information. Instead, they contend it never occurred to anyone at the CIA that the Kennedy assassination could have been ordered by Castro in retaliation for U.S.-sponsored attempts

Both John J. McCloy, a former member of the Warren Commission, and Secretary of Transportation William T. Coleman, who as an attorney for the commission was possibility that Lee Harvey Oswald was part of a foreign conspiracy, confirmed that they had not been told of any CIA plots against Castro at the time of their investigation.

Both men refused to speculate on what effect, if any, knowledge of such a plot would have had on the investigation, which concluded that there was no credible evidence linking Oswald to a conspiracy.

The information withheld concerned a 1961 plot against Castro involving contacts between the CIA and mobsters Sam Giancana and John Roselli.

The existence of that plot has been confirmed by two high intelligence sources, and several other news organizations have reported that the Rockefeller Commission possesses Justice Department documents, one reportedly written by former FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, which also confirm the existence of the Giancana-Roselli plot.

The sources describe the plot as having originated in the Eisenhower administration and designed to coincide with the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion. Although Castro has stated publicly he was aware of CIA plots against his life, there is no independent evidence indicating that he knew about the Giancana-Roselli plot at the time of the Kennedy assassination.

One source has said that the plot never got past the planning stage, but columnist Jack Anderson has reported that Roselli made a number of unsuccessful attempts on Castro's life.
